

EDFF accomplishes national and international contacts with football fans. This concerns the individual as well as the organised football fans.

EDFF turns explicitly against violence, xenophobia, racism, discrimination and sexism in the environment of football, especially as well before, during and after the games. This includes the national amateur field as well as international contests up to the world cup and concerns the players, the coaches, the officials, the media and the fans.

Responsible in terms of press law/
Responsible accordant to MDStV/TG:
Ein Dach für Fans e.V.
Dr. Marc Bialojahn
Vereinsregister AG Dortmund Nr. 5829
Christianstr. 15
D-44225 Dortmund
Phone.: +49 231 7546507
Email : info@edff.net
Photos: groundhopping.de photocase.com

It's our game - it's our world
and we are not for sale

EDFF refuses the more and more absurd commercialization of football and stands up for the conservation and development of an active fan scene as a sociopolitical relevant factor:

EDFF images itself as a mediator for football fans, media, politics and security agencies.

EDFF works with own country, regional and project groups as well as with organised fan groups, clubs and organizations, which identify with the objectives of EDFF. Within such cooperation EDFF supports the self dependent realisation of project ideas and measures.

supported by:

European Department of Friends of Football

Ein Dach für Fans

www.edff.net
www.edff.at www.edff.ch

www.edff.net

EDFF

Wherever particular friends of football congregate

Besides football there is hardly anything else that can unite the most diverse human beings. The love for football unites humans across all professions, nationalities, skin colours, classes of income and even political inclinations. One more reason why violence should not be a part of football. We at EDFF believe that getting to know the others better is an essential opportunity for peaceful encounters amongst football supporters.

United

In this sense we can gather strength in unity: gather strength against racist and right wing extremist attitudes, gather strength against xenophobia, sexism and violence as well as against total commercialization.

EMMA

Platform for the peaceful encounter of international football supporters

Champion League Games or UEFA Cups, qualification games, European or World Cups, national league games or cups - football supporters will accompany their teams as far as their feet will carry them, or trains and busses take them.

EDFF has set up the database EMMA to assist supporters in locating accommodation. Private offers from supporter for supporter, reasonable and supporter-friendly bed & breakfasts or hotels - all of this can be sourced via EMMA free of charge.

It's our game
it's our world
and we are not for sale

Recently our favourite sport has been tarnished by a bitter aftertaste: an at times even preposterous commercialization is threatening to completely take over football. We should consciously observe this tendency and as friends of football ready ourselves to set boundaries to this development.

EDFF, a non-profit organization, provides a platform to national and international supporters for mutual encounters.

Meeting other supporters and getting to know them is a crucial step towards peaceful togetherness - and a first step to set boundaries to preposterous commercialization. Fans are rivals and friends at the same time.